Testimony on the "Forced Regionalization of School Districts" -- or -- "The straw that breaks the camel's back"

Dear Tyrants,

While you may believe it wise to promote the agenda granting the State the ability to indoctrinate our children, I can state emphatically that I and my wife do not! Fortunately, our children (aged 28) are no longer susceptible to requirement that we send them to the indoctrination center for 180 days per year.

For the past month we have been actively seeking to buy property in any other state where the tendrils of government are still being pruned back by the people of those states. Fortunately the policies of the previous administration, and the long held Democrat Controlled legislature are about to appear only in our rear-view mirrors. The horrible decisions made by the elected leaders of my once beloved Nutmeg State have likely precluded me even shedding a tear on our last journey out of the State. The recurring internet joke of a blue highway sign reading: You are now Leaving Connecticut -- was is something we taxed? leaves me sad that I did not avail myself of the opportunity to leave years ago.

However, until I actually declare residence in a new state, I would like to remind the committee that as elected officials better wake up and listen to the people who generate the wealth you are so profligate to steal from. Mark my words what you call taxation I call theft. If you continue to pander to the dumb-masses whose votes you can buy, in time the bills will come due and you will find that the rest of the people who actually produce will have fled leaving you nothing. Eventually when you fail to deliver the exorbitant promises to those dumb-masses they will be the ones to turn on you, quite likely in ways you cannot imagine.

At this time, all I can say to the committee and our new Governor is that I hope you receive the outcome which you deserve! You may continue to delude yourselves that you are doing these things for 'all the right reasons' but I can assure you that you are simply deluded; nothing more.

P.S. Gail,

I included you in the TO: list not because I think you are one of the deluded ones, but because I promised I would send testimony.
