NO to both Bill 457 and Bill 738

The state is no substitute for directing where children are educated. Parents have the right and the majority of parents are quite aware how the state educational system has failed. The majority of educational administrators reward students who don't care and/or are indifferent to education while neglecting the brightest students. Regionalization is an expensive task to implement and more expensive to maintain and completely nonproductive. Statistics demonstrate the larger the school, the less discipline, less structure and less ability for students to learn. Regionalization only benefits the educational administrators who lack competence and intellect to properly direct the bright students. Regionalization is just another excuse for educational administrators to demand more and more money while continually doing less and less for students. The state legislature is a disgrace in attempting to take control of a child's education away from middle-class parents while facilitating the elite to seek private education for their children. If the state legislature wishes to continue to tax the middle-class for education of illegals, then create a magnet school just for them to learn together and allow illegals to demonstrate their ability rather than disguise inherent weaknesses among americans who want to achieve. All humans are different. None of us, no matter what level of education we master, are identical. Therefore, our learning process, by our inherent weaknesses, differs from student to student. Educational administrators blame teachers to excuse their own inability and incompetence. Educational administrators are unjustly rewarded for their own prejudices against students who do learn and demonstrate excellence. The two Bills proposed fail to address real issues in education and is an attempt to further disguise the failures of educational administrators. We need smaller schools with less administrators.
