Thank you for the opportunity to submit comments in opposition to SB-738, AN ACT CONCERNING THE CREATION OF REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICTS.

The bill is intended to create a more efficient educational system, but it threatens to disrupt schools throughout Connecticut by calling for a massive restructuring of school districts in this state.

Clearly, this forced consolidation approach is wrong-headed. It calls for school districts to be realigned, similar to the probate districts. Most small towns are paying more for the regionalized probate districts and this is a misguided approach to even consider relative to schools.

A one-size-fits all approach to school consolidation/regionalization is very misguided, particularly in light of the studies that have been done by towns exploring such options. For example, towns in Northwestern Connecticut were interested in determining whether regionalizing K-6 would prove beneficial, in terms of costs and educational quality.

As required, a study committee was formed with representatives from Barkhamsted, Colebrook, New Hartford, and Norfolk to make recommendations regarding the addition of grades K-6 to the existing middle school and high school grades at Region 7. However, differences in the cost per student of each school would have increased the cost of K-6 education in Barkhamsted and New Hartford if K-6 was regionalized.

The study also compared Region 7 costs per student to Regions 6, 10 and 12, which suggested that regionalization by itself would not have a major impact on costs. In fact, in order to make the regionalization of K-6 budget neutral, the study found that they would somehow have to realize savings of $2.8 million or 18%, which was not feasible.

The study also found that the towns had already realized many savings from shared services, such as cooperative purchasing, shared staff, and common curricula, so that consolidation wouldn't produce other significant opportunities for savings.

Participating in the study and gaining an understanding of the various factors that may affect opportunities for cost savings, such as existing building facilities and transportation needs, underscored for me how regionalization needs to be reviewed on a case-by-case basis, and not a top-down, mandated approach.

Please reject SB-738.
