

I am writing to object to the proposed bill sb-874 specifically in how it aims to regulate homeschooling. As a homeschooling parent, a father of 5, lifelong Conn. resident and Hartford resident for 17 years, I strongly object to these proposals.

As you know, in Connecticut parents have both a Constitutional and a statutory right to educate their own children. This is without having to inform any government agencies before doing so.

Families like ours need freedom to educate our children, not another layer of red tape and “oversight” and “registration”.

Please remove all mention of homeschooling from this bill.

Respectfully,

Rodger Phillips
Farmington, Conn.
