

I am a birth mother and I do not need to be protected! I relinquished my child in 1963 as a 17 year old. I never expected that I would be able to contact my daughter under government rules back then. I finally did find her last year and she is alive and well at the age of 55. I strongly believe that it should be made easy for an adoptee to contact their birth parents and should not have to look at DNA records to trace their parents. It is a fundamental human right to know ones' biological origins. I have many friends who did not find their birth mothers or fathers until after they had passed away. This should not ever happen!
