

I am a birth mother and can attest to this fact: it was NOT my decision to give up my newborn, first and only infant to adoption! But my signature was emotionally manipulated from my hand just days after his birth. I never received his original birth certificate, but I certainly agree that my son, along with every other adoptee deserves the truth recorded at birth. I never asked to be, nor needed to be "protected" in the cruelty of hidden and ostracized privacy. I found it, contrare, to be cruelly lonely and inhumane! Let us speak for ourselves, instead of assuming ignorant unrealities in this barbaric industry of adoption, please!

Sincerely,

Mary K. Trumm, mother of Andrew Michael, Ocala, Florida
