

I am a Connecticut resident and I support legislation which would allow terminally ill patients the right to choose assisted suicide. I have personally had experience with a dear friend who terminally ill suffered for weeks waiting to pass. If available he would have chosen assisted suicide. Assisted suicide has been available in several states and with appropriate safeguards has worked very well. I know some people have strong moral objection and we respect their views but if you object to the procedure do not choose it. They should not however be allowed, however, to choose for the rest of us. I beg the legislature to consider and enact a responsible right to die bill.
