Explanation

The amendment strikes the underlying bill and the associated fiscal impact. The amendment allows a child charged with a specific motor vehicle delinquency to be placed in a diversionary program instead of juvenile detention and results in savings. Currently, cases that require juvenile detention result in a cost of approximately $800/night.

The amendment specifies that evaluation and treatment under the new diversionary program must be paid by a parent or guardian unless the child is indigent, in which case the fees would be paid by the state. The cost for evaluation and treatment for a juvenile diversionary program ranges from approximately $650-$1000 per case.
