

I am totally against the referenced proposal for more government involvement in our healthcare. Our State should not be sponsoring any additional health insurance programs. As our government stands today, it is unable to work in a bi-partisan manner and thus is able to only serve itself, and not the constituents.

Additionally the fairest method of obtaining a fair health insurance system without killing private sector insurance jobs and raising costs is to keep government out and allow fair competition among all insurance companies. We already have Medicare and Medicaid government health care. They are not as good as the private insurance plans (I know - just recently HAD to enroll in Medicare) and the government is constantly struggling with costs.

Why would you think the state could do so again?

Rachel Williams
Bridgewater CT