AN ACT CONCERNING THE DEFENSE OF A PERSON OR A PERSON'S DWELLING, PLACE OF WORK OR MOTOR VEHICLE.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Assembly convened:

Section 1. Section 53a-19 of the general statutes is repealed and the following is substituted in lieu thereof (Effective October 1, 2022):

(a) Except as provided in subsections (b) and (c) of this section, a person is justified in using reasonable physical force upon another person to defend himself or a third person from what he reasonably believes to be the use or imminent use of physical force, and he may use such degree of force which he reasonably believes to be necessary for such purpose; except that deadly physical force may not be used unless the actor reasonably believes that such other person is (1) using or about to use deadly physical force, or (2) inflicting or about to inflict great bodily harm.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (a) of this section, a person is not justified in using deadly physical force upon another person if he or she knows that he or she can avoid the necessity of using such force with complete safety (1) by retreating, except that the actor shall not be required to retreat if he or she is (A) in his or her dwelling, as defined in section 53a-100, motor vehicle or place of work and was not the initial aggressor, or [if he or she is] (B) a peace officer or a special policeman appointed under section 29-18b, or a private person assisting such peace officer or special policeman at his or her direction, and acting pursuant to section 53a-22, or (2) by surrendering possession of property to a person asserting a claim of right thereto, or (3) by complying with a demand that he or she abstain from performing an act which he or she is not obliged to perform.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (a) of this section, a person is not justified in using physical force when (1) with intent to cause physical injury or death to another person, he provokes the use of physical force by such other person, or (2) he is the initial aggressor, except that his use of physical force upon another person under such circumstances is justifiable if he withdraws from the encounter and effectively communicates to such other person his intent to do so, but such other person notwithstanding continues or threatens the use of physical force, or (3) the physical force involved was the product of a combat by agreement not specifically authorized by law.

(d) There shall be a presumption that the belief of a person under this section that the use of deadly physical force is necessary to defend such person or a third person from another person (1) using or about to use deadly physical force, or (2) inflicting or about to inflict great bodily harm, is a reasonable belief.

Sec. 2. Section 53a-20 of the general statutes is repealed and the following is substituted in lieu thereof (Effective October 1, 2022):

(a) A person in possession or control of premises, or a person who is licensed or privileged to be in or upon such premises, is justified in using reasonable physical force upon another person when and to the extent that he reasonably believes such to be necessary to prevent or terminate the commission or attempted commission of a criminal trespass by such other person in or upon such premises; but he may use deadly physical force under such circumstances only (1) in defense of a person as prescribed in section 53a-19, as amended by this act, or (2) when he reasonably believes such to be necessary to prevent an attempt by the trespasser to commit arson or any crime of violence, or (3) to the extent that he reasonably believes such to be necessary to prevent or terminate an unlawful entry by force into his dwelling as defined in section 53a-100, or place of work, and for the sole purpose of such prevention or termination.

(b) There shall be a presumption that the belief of a person under this section that the use of deadly physical force is necessary to (1) defend such person or a third person as prescribed in section 53a-19, as amended by this act, (2) prevent an attempt by the trespasser to commit arson or any crime of violence, or (3) prevent or terminate an unlawful entry by force into his dwelling or place of work, is a reasonable belief.

Sec. 3. Section 53a-21 of the general statutes is repealed and the following is substituted in lieu thereof (Effective October 1, 2022):

(a) A person is justified in using reasonable physical force upon another person when and to the extent that he reasonably believes such to be necessary to prevent an attempt by such other person to commit larceny or criminal mischief involving property, or when and to the extent he reasonably believes such to be necessary to regain property which he reasonably believes to have been acquired by larceny within a reasonable time prior to the use of such force; but he may use deadly physical force under such circumstances only (1) in defense of a person as prescribed in section 53a-19, as amended by this act, or (2) to the extent that he reasonably believes such to be necessary to prevent or terminate an unlawful entry by force into his motor vehicle, and for the sole purpose of such prevention or termination.

(b) There shall be a presumption that the belief of a person under this section that the use of deadly physical force is necessary to (1) defend such person or a third person as prescribed in section 53a-19, as amended by this act, or (2) prevent or terminate an unlawful entry by force into his motor vehicle, is a reasonable belief.
