Terramation is a burial process which has been approved by CT funeral directors. It can be implemented with consideration to health and safety concerns. It has the benefit of mitigating forces contributing to climate change, which is a main reason why it should be legalized. Plus, terramation reduces the cost of traditional burials and is a sustainable option for CT residents who oppose embalming and cremation. It is legal in VT, WA, OR, CA, NY, and CO and would provide economic and environmental advantages to CT.
