The regulation requires technology updates to reasonably available control technology (RACT) for the control of nitrogen oxide (NOx) limits emitted at all major electric generating, industrial, institutional and commercial facilities, including the state. current state of repair. Annual boiler tune-up costs are anticipated to be $457-$11,416 per ton of NOx emitted. As UConn emitted 31.14 tons of NOx during 2015, this may result in costs of $14,231-$355,494 annually. Costs incurred to UConn for tune-ups may be partially offset by savings associated with a decrease in fuel consumption, as boilers are anticipated to burn less fuel after regular tune-ups. The regulation does not result in a fiscal impact to the Department of Energy and Environmental Protection (DEEP).
