

It is amazing how intelligent folks elected to the legislature can propose such stupid legislation as no more than one shot in a gun, taxing ammunition, no pump shotguns, etc. Of course this makes for good reading and I guess the gun owners are to feel like they won something when this folly doesn't pass. Taxing ammo is stupid, but wait maybe the State can close the budget gap created by the folks who spend like drunken sailors, and control guns at the same time. You do all this while not taking some of the responsibility for the tragedy at sandy hook because of the cut backs in mental health treatment, and closing mental health facilities. I think I've wasted enough of my time writing this cause I think this gun control stuff has already been decided upon in a back room deal . But unlike N.Y. this will make the gun owners feel like there being heard.
