

The time is now, the place is definitely here to take a stand against the gun lobby. For years they have block every common sense measure to stop the carnage. Why? Because I believe they represent gun manufacturers. There is nothing in the pending legislation that would prevent legitimate owners from buying, collecting, or selling there weapons. There are plenty of legitimate customers in the military and law enforcement to provide a market for weapons of mass carnage.

I urge each and every one of you to summon the courage to vote for sensible, common sense gun legislation. You owe it to your fellow Connecticut residents, so recently victims of a unspeakable blood bath to do nothing less.
