

Gun Control.

Obviously this issue engenders very strong feeling on both sides.

What I often find lacking in these discussions however, is an understanding of the basic facts.

Imagine how frustrating it would be if people with very little understanding of something you know and care deeply about started telling you how it should be regulated, BASED ON THAT LACK OF UNDERSTANDING!

Unless you have been a gun owner and shooter for several years AND have shot and owned Semi Automatic firearms; it's quite likely that you believe one or more of the common misconceptions about these firearms.

Read this and become informed:

To quote Stuart Varney:

"You Sir, are entitled to your own opinion; you are not however entitled to your own facts."

Or, as I read once on a T-Shirt: "Try Being Informed Instead of Just Opinionated!"
