

As a longtime CT resident I think I reflect the spirit of the state when I want assault weapons locked up. If the army can restrict their use to shooting ranges, we should be able to do so with ordinary citizens. Then they can target shoot to their heart's delight and only endanger themselves. And as for the crazies who think they need protection from our own government, they will never be convinced, but they are not the majority of the voters, if they vote at all. Don't be fooled by their shouting and listen to the reasonable people you represent.

Jan Roman
State taxpayer
Business woman
Mother of five
Grandmother of fifteen