

As a mother of young children in Connecticut it is unbearable to hear that there are still people out there who are more concerned with their right to have assault weapons than standing up for the safety of our children. I am not against the right to bear arms. But to not ban assault weapons and large clips/magazines makes absolutely no sense in our society. The argument that video games and mental health care play a large role in mass shootings is very true. We need to address those issues ALONG with banning weapons only meant for our soldiers. Thank you. Katie Welles
