Connecticut wooed gunmaker Bushmaster's parent company days before Sandy Hook massacre

Freedom Group was offered a low-interest, $1 million loan for a Stamford headquarters, but after the Bushmaster AR-15 was used in Newtown, the proposal was canceled.

Firearms Training Unit Detective Barbara J. Mattson of the Connecticut State Police holds up a Bushmaster AR-15 rifle, the same gun used by Adam Lanza in the Sandy Hook School shooting, for a demonstration during a hearing of a legislative subcommittee reviewing gun laws, at the Legislative Office Building in Hartford, Conn., in January.

A sweetheart deal to entice the holding company of gunmaker Bushmaster to Connecticut was canned shortly after Adam Lanza used one of the company's assault rifles to kill 26 people at Sandy Hook Elementary School.

(Updated 7:55 p.m.) Gov. Dannel P. Malloy is not known for his patience. So it's not surprising that he told the Journal Inquirer's editorial board Tuesday that he will introduce his own gun control legislation in the next few days because the legislature's bipartisan Super Committee isn't acting fast enough.

Malloy says they can make them in CT - residents just can't own one!
