

I am writing in support of safer gun laws in CT and the entire united states. As a mother of two young children I know there needs to be change in how guns are bought/sold and what children are exposed to in our homes, others and online. I also write as a school psychologist in CT.

Having experienced 9/11 and the Newtown crisis in schools, it is time to pay attention to what is going on in our society and how we direct change in the mental health field.

It is imperative that our leaders make this a priority and examine ways to prevent gun violence in our society.

Speak up, be heard and do something to affect change.
