

The Sandy Hook tragedy has deeply saddened our community and all whom heard of the loss of such innocent and caring people. It is therefore a natural desire to move and solve with action and change in response to unspeakable tragedies.

The people we have chosen to lead our communities must feel an omnipresent pressure to show their understanding and willingness to act or assist in protecting against future incidents. We have chosen these people for their judiciousness and eloquence in their representation of 'We the people'. We look to them to take our fears and our angers and express them with the appropriate loquaciousness and action. Their knowledge of the laws and amendments and their ability to protect and navigate them is to our benefit.

The amendments were made specifically to ensure that the misrepresentation and entrapment of rights as people would not be repeated in future generations. A move to deform or infringe the second amendment defies that purpose. Proposed changes to laws may also affect the fourth amendment. A calm well thought out review of both arguments must be made in such a way to ensure the preservation of both the freedom to bear arms and to maintain domestic tranquility. The founders of our society thought that both were attainable and complimentary.

There should be an amenable compromise that further ensures the safety of it's citizens with out ignoring the founding fathers experience based wisdom. Please don't allow the injustices our forefathers so ardently fought to resolve, to be ignored or repeated in our present and future.
