

I want to start by saying, I'm not insensitive to what happen to all the people in Newtown & all the incidents with gun violence . I am a father of three, grandfather of two, & an owner of guns. I would like for people not to lose sight of what really happened in sandy hook, the real problem to me was a disturbed young man who stole weapons from a legal gun owner & went to a school & did something so horrifying. What law could be put in place that would stop someone that was mentally disturbed & steals a gun from an legal gun owner & the same thing happen again. People should not be afraid of something they know nothing about. You do not have to have a fully automatic weapon to do that much devastation. To me the devastation come from the person holding the weapon (the Mind), I still stick by the saying"weapons don't kill people, people kill people". People that have mental issues can't comprehend laws and what's right or wrong. Lets hold them accountable, or the doctors that say these people are ok to be put back into normal society I would like to finish by saying all new gun laws will just keep the honest people more honest it won't stop the person that are not in there right mind.
