

To the State Tax Panel,

Gasoline prices in CT, and everywhere, are very low, and this would be a perfect time to raise the federal gas tax so we can start improving our roads and bridges that are in deplorable condition. I don't expect the U.S. Congress to do this, so maybe CT and surrounding states could agree to do it in concert. If not, Connecticut should do it alone. This is a revenue source for transportation infrastructure that we badly need.
Thank you for your consideration of this measure.

John C. Hall
Portland CT 06480