

Suggestion:

Get rid of that twit Malloy. It's kind of funny that he ran twice on the promise to not raise taxes just to contradict that notion soon after election. Not to mention rigging the whole budget report prior to reelection just to find out an "error" occurred in its calculation. At this point it's our fault for letting these shenanigans continue.

Iain Horwath