

CT has become a most undesirable state to live in and do business in. Steps need to be taken to reduce taxes to make the business and residential environment more acceptable. The first step that should be taken is to reinstate the $500 personal property tax credit. Also a review should be made of the Tax Table since there is a significant increase in taxes with a minimal increase in income. Commuters are faced with an inordinate amount of tax dollars from gas consumption. Obviously, changes to improve the burden on CT businesses need to be taken also to prevent more business leaving the state. Since we are not business owners we cannot be specific. As seniors living in a very senior-unfriendly state we would move out of CT if we could.
