

The taxes in the State of Connecticut are out of control and too high causing corporations and people who support our tax base to leave. We have too many social programs that support second and third generations of welfare recipients. We need to have some stopping point of financing these programs before the state goes into bankruptcy. The state is too quickly approaching an imbalance of working people supporting the programs to those who receive help.

If we really want to help people, it is necessary to provide them with jobs not free money with no strings attached. We are need to teach the value of work and responsibility not how to receive handouts and an entitlement or right.

The proposed taxes for tolls and taxes on mileage to help perpetuate irresponsible spending and budgeting because the state can't or won't control our money is ridiculous. Just because the money is there doesn't mean it needs to be spent. Stop the spending and create jobs. Just remember... You get what you pay for...but we are getting nothing in return except more taxes and payouts.

Robert Lloyd